WALTON CALLS REGENTS FOR PARLEY

TO START DRIVE FOR PURCHASING PLANT ADDITION

Committees to Canvass City to Raise Fund for Factory Site.

WANER'S STATEMENT

Only Step Remaining in Plan for New Glass Plant for City..

The last step in securing the new glass factory for Ada will be taken tomorrow when committees from the chamber of commerce will begin a drive for funds to purchase the site on which the factory expects to build.

This is the only guarantee that is necessary now to bring the glass factory here, according to Ralph Waner, secretary of the chamber of commerce. In explaining the importance of this move and the manner in which it is to be conducted Waner says:

Committees from the Chamber of Commerce will start the drive for funds to purchase land for industrial sites early tomorrow. Everyone is urged to give liberally and willingly so the committees can complete its work in short time. All men on these committees are business men and are giving their time as well as financial contributions. All of us will be greatly benefited by the industries that will locate on the land to be purchased and every loyal citizen should give a liberal and willing financial response when approached.

The land to be purchased is the eight acre tract joining on the north of the present industrial site which is in proper position that service of the joint railway service track can be extended to it. The Chamber of Commerce has a short time option on this tract of land at $3,000 and since the new glass factory will need two acres of this tract it is necessary to raise funds now and buy the land. The primary object in buying the land now is to accommodate the new glass plant.

Ald Glass Plant Project. All the money subscribed will be placed in a special fund and held pending the beginning of construction of the new glass factory. In this way we can be assured of the glass plant before buying the land. The Chamber of Commerce has no doubt about the glass factory coming but they will not take definite steps until they have absolute assurance of it and should something unexpected keep the glass company from coming the money will be refunded to the subscribers.

The committees and the places they will work is as follows: W. J. Coffman, J. I. McCauley, A. M. Gregg, South side East Main from Broadway to Rennie; W. D. Little, C. V. Gowing, R. W. Simpson, North side East Main from Broadway to Rennie; J. U. Criswell, J. R. Couch, Byron Sledge, both sides of East Main from Rennie; Ed Granger, M. C. Taylor, Joe Cole, South side West Main from Broadway to Townsend; M. C. Wilson, H. P. Sugg, Foster McSwain, north side West Main from Broadway to Townsend; L. A. Ellison, R. L. Haynes, Claude Fisher, West Main from Townsend; Chas. A. Zorn, M. C. Grigsby, Geo. Harrison, South Broadway and 12th street; C. E. Cunningham, Roy Givens, W. M. Pegg, J. T. Bray, M. M. Harwell, J. H. Collins, at large.

Our citizens have always shown the true public spirit when it becomes necessary to do something to help Ada and the officials of the Chamber of Commerce are confident that all will readily respond to the call at this time.

Government Seeks to Stop Promoting Activity of Cook

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 10.—A fraud order designed to curtail the oil stock promotion activities of Dr. Frederick A. Cook of North Pole fame was issued by the postoffice department today.

Dr. Cook, the fraud order sets forth, organized the Petroleum Producers association and as president began merging companies, some active and some defunct.

By mutual agreement, it was alleged, Cook was to be sole trustee of the Petroleum Producers association and was to receive in lieu of other compensation one-eighth of the proceeds.

Light breakfasts are almost as popular as heavy morning meals among many notables who recently answered a questionnaire on the subject.

SIXTEEN BURNED IN OIL FLAMES

Many Witnesses to Gruesome Tragedy in Oil Well Explosion.

(By the Associated Press) CORSIKANA, Texas, May 10.—Sixteen unidentified bodies and three other smoldering in a lake of burning oil about 300 feet in circumference, and possibly a score of others not yet discovered today told a tale of tragedy resulting from an explosion late yesterday of the giant gusher of the J. K. Hughes Development Co.'s McKie No. 1 well.

When the blast came 16 of the fifty-odd men in the two crews and a connecting gang were sucked into the sheet of flame.

About 500 people had been watching the work of the drillers but none could give a coherent account of the affair or what caused the explosion.

Some of those nearer the burning well said they could hear the cries for help but the heat of the flames kept rescuers away. L. C. Cook a head driller of one of the crews, was seen to dash away and jump into some water nearby.

He died on the way to the hospital. The exact number at work in and around the derrick at the time was hard to determine as S. P. Allen, one of those killed was said to be the only one known to have the number and names of the crews.

The well came in unexpectedly Tuesday night and because of lack of control and storage facilities had made a lake of oil about 300 feet square. This became a mass of flames immediately.

Dupont Quits as Head of General Motor Corporation

(By the Associated Press) NEW YORK, May 10.—The General Motors Corporation today announced the resignation of Pierre Dupont as president and chairman of the executive committee. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., was elected as his successor.

The announcement said that Mr. Dupont would continue as chairman of the board of directors and would still take an active part in the affairs of his corporation. He will retain his membership in the finance and executive committees and will remain as chairman of the E. I. Dupont de Nemours and Company, largest holders of the General Motors common stock.

HARDING NOT TO ATTEND TESTIMONIAL FOR BOOTH

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 10.—White House officials said today that unless there is a last minute change in his plans, President Harding would not go to New York to deliver an address at a testimonial gathering held in honor of Gen. and Mr. Ballington Booth, founders of the Volunteers of America.

Haworth Slayers Sent To Chair For Murders

Despite Clemency Decree of Governor Barrett Orders Capital Punishment.

(By the Associated Press) IDABEL, May 10.—John Pope, confessed slayer of his wife, her father and mother and his two children, and Aaron "Red" Harvey, his confessed accomplice, were sentenced to death by Judge G. M. Barrett in district court early today. Jack Pope, son of John Pope, who admitted accompanying his father and Harvey to the scene of the killings, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

IDABEL, May 10.—The three prisoners were brought here at 7 o'clock this morning from the jail at Paris, Texas, where they have been secretly held since their preliminary hearing to prevent mob violence. Sentence was pronounced before eight o'clock and by 8:15 the slayers were en route by automobile to the penitentiary at McAlester. The courtroom was virtually deserted at the time and there was no demonstration.

In a statement after receiving their sentence the three men declared that they killed their victims to obtain $2,000 in insurance which Mrs. Pope carried.

The five were slain early in the morning of April 26 as they lay sleeping in their beds at the home of T. H. Hansell, Mrs. Pope's father, near Haworth, Oklahoma. Mrs. Pope only the day before had filed suit for divorce against her husband. She had gone to live with her parents about a month ago.

A few hours after the killing the three men were tracked down by posse in the section between Texas and Oklahoma bounded by the Red River. They readily asserted that they were the slayers and entered pleas of guilty to charges of murder several days later at the preliminary hearing.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10.—Governor J. C. Walton, who announced that he will not permit capital punishment in the state while he is chief executive, declined today to indicate what course he will follow in the case of John Pope and "Red" Harvey. Asked what he will do the governor said, "I have no comment whatever to make."

MILITARY LEADERS TO ATTEND DEDICATION

Well known military men and one of the best known military bands in the state will be in Ada on May 30, Memorial Day, according to a statement of Lowrey H. Harrell. He has been assured by Adjutant General B. H. Markham not only that the general himself will be here, but that he will order out the band of the 160th Field Artillery. This band will be one of the features of Memorial Day services.

Col. William S. Keys, of Wewoka, commanding officer of the 160th Field Artillery will also be here that day and take part in the events.

Exhibits Shown to Boost Work in City Schools

For several days past there have appeared in the windows of a number of local stores exhibits of work done in the various grade schools of the city. These exhibits were placed in public view in order that the people of the city might realize the quality of work being accomplished in the city schools.

The exhibits were as follows: Willard school at Shaw; Glenwood school at Hensler and Smith; Irving School, circus, at Simpsons; Washington School, trophies, at Gwin and Mays; Hays school, houses, at Harris Wall Paper and Paint Company; a general exhibit of the work done in the year 1921-1922 was placed in the show windows of Wilson's and Evans and Woodward.

Exports of meat and meat products from the United States last year totaled 1,758,000,000 pounds, compared with 1,946,000,000 pounds in 1921.

RANSOM OFFERS GAIN CAPTIVES

Prisoners Released by Bandit Crew After Ransom Fee is Paid.

(By the Associated Press) Success in the negotiations to ransom foreigners held captive by Chinese bandits in the mountain fastnesses of Shantung, was indicated today when a dispatch from Pekin announced the release of Roland Pinger, Jr., and Robert Allen, Jr., sons of American majors. The two majors are still held according to advices received this afternoon.

A private message from Tsao Chung received in Shanghai by the Asiatic Development Co., reported that all but one of the foreign captives taken had been released. The one still held is said to be Chevalier Musso, an Italian attorney at Shanghai. A previous report said that the brigands were holding him for $1,000,000 ransom and that he is critically ill. The size of the ransom indicates that the bandits consider him their most valuable prisoner.

Advices received in Tsin Fu states that all captives might be released today.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The attack of Chinese troops on the bandits captured several Americans and other foreigners after wrecking the Shanghai Pekin express train, has been ordered stopped by the Pekin government.

SHANGHAI, May 10.—All foreign captives held by the bandits are well and are "having a wonderful time," and expect to be released soon, according to written messages received from four of them by relief workers in Linching which were relayed here today.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The state department today received advices from the American legation at Pekin saying that the Pekin authorities had ordered the C. I. troops to "desist from measures against the bandits," and to adopt "pacific means," which will insure the liberation of the prisoners without injury.

WOULD CHANGE TERMS OF COURT RESOLUTION

(By the Associated Press) ATLANTA, May 10.—Declaring she "would not stand for the Federation of women's clubs endorsing the president's proposal for American participation in a world court of international justice," Mrs. Thomas G. Winter resident of the General Federation of Women's clubs, said today that the resolution on this subject agreed to by the resolutions committee, probably would be modified so as to make clear that the principle was endorsed and not any specific proposal.

Mrs. Winter explained that while she personally favored American participation in a world court, she was opposed to having the resolution so worded that any charge of partisan politics could be brought against the Federation. The resolution as agreed to yesterday by the committee, did not mention President Harding or his proposal but some leaders informally pointed out that the recommendation of the president along this line is the only one before the country.

Bandits Who Take Cash From Bank Elude Pursuers

BARTLESVILLE, May 10.—The three bandits who robbed the First National Bank at Bartlesville shortly after noon yesterday and escaped with approximately $7000, including $5000 in cash, are still at large and have apparently made good their escape. Officers searching for the bandits abandoned their chase late Wednesday afternoon. An abandoned car, believed to be the one used by the robbers, was found just outside of Bartlesville.

According to reports reaching this city the bandits overlooked $10,000 in currency which was in another safe in the bank.

ADA TURNS HOST TO BOOSTERS ON TRADE EXCURSION

Oklahoma City Trade Promoters to be Guests of City for Night Stop.

CITY EXTENDS WELCOME Trips to Points of Interest Plan of Entertainment for Visitors.

The city of Ada will be turned over to the entertainment of trade boosters from Oklahoma City after their arrival here this afternoon at 4 o'clock according to the announcement of Ralph Waner, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

A delegation with cars will meet the Oklahoma City boosters this afternoon and conduct them to the points of interest in the city or honor their desires in any method they choose in becoming better acquainted with the city and its business leaders.

Secretary Waner intimated that Oklahoma City boosters preferred to become intimately acquainted with Ada business rather than receive the welcome of the city in a banquet or similar function in their interest.

The cement plant in operation will be one of the feature attractions which is expected to claim the interest of the Oklahoma City boosters here tonight. A tour of inspection will be conducted by representatives of the plant for the benefit of the boosters in this industry.

Cars will be at the disposal of the boosters to visit other city industries should that be their desire, Secretary Waner stated.

By special request of the boosters making the trade excursion here Secretary Waner urges that business men remain at their establishments until boosters visit with their customers here. Oklahoma City boosters are especially anxious that they find their representatives and customers here at their business establishments in order that various phases of their business may be discussed.

According to the schedule announced in connection with the trade excursion here, boosters will march to corner of Main and Broadway, where their band will precede their activities with several selections.

City Attorney Lowrey H. Harrell will deliver an address of welcome to the boosters in the interest of Mayor Fisher, Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce. Several Oklahoma City speakers are expected to point out lines of development in trade territories of the state and impress Ada buyers of the importance of a "trade in Oklahoma program" for Oklahoma buyers.

Ada is considered one of the strong buying centers of Oklahoma City wholesale and manufacturing concerns, since the bulk of Ada business goes directly or indirectly to that point.

Boosters will arrive here from Sapulpa, making Ada a night stop. They will leave at 8 o'clock Friday morning stopping at towns between Ada and Ardmore before going into the oil fields in Carter county and later returning to Ardmore for the final night stop.

Approximately 125 boosters will visit with Ada merchants representing the largest business interest of Oklahoma City. They are making their tour in a special train of Pullmans.

The following men have volunteered to use their cars for the entertainment of Oklahoma City boosters this evening and are requested to be at the Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 sharp: Walter Wray, J. B. Hill, O. Davidson, E. B. Dodd, Wick Adair, J. C. Deaver, L. J. Crowder, Ed Granger, Tom Granger, J. U. Orlewell, J. I. McCauley, M. C. Taylor, C. V. Gowing, L. A. Ellison, C. H. Rives, Claude Fisher, Bart Smith, J. E. Harris, W. H. Ebey, The Model, M. C. Wilson, W. E. Harvey, T. B. Blake and Chas. A. Zorn.

A few more cars are needed and anyone that can and will use their cars on this occasion should be at the Chamber of Commerce at 7:30.

Steel Demand Decreases. (By the Associated Press) NEW YORK, May 10.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation on April 30 made public today totaled 7,288,509 tons, a decrease of 114,323 tons under those at the end of the preceding month.

WINDY CITY LABOR REPORTED AS "RED"

John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, is on his way to Washington to confer with President Gompers of A. F. of L. over the report that because of alleged "Redness" the Chicago body is to be expelled from the A. F. of L.

BALLOON CLASSIC UNDER NEW RULES

National Elimination Races at Indianapolis to be Put Under Ruling.

(By the Associated Press) INDIANAPOLIS, May 10.—Definite rules governing entries; size of balloons with regard to gas capacity, and other phases of construction, have been adopted for the annual national elimination balloon race, which will start in Indianapolis July 4.—It will be the first time that definite rules have governed the event, it was said.

Preliminary arrangements for the race, which will be held under the auspices of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, were made recently. The contest is sponsored by the National Aeronautic Association of which B. Russell Shaw of Washington, D. C., is chairman of the contest committee.

The rules provide that free or spherical balloons of more than 31,000 cubic feet capacity are eligible to compete. All balloons and complete equipment must be at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where the take off, will be made, between June 20 and July 1, and they must be inflated on the ground. Each balloonist must have a recording altimeter, which will be sealed by the referee, and the necessary charts carried in the balloon during flight. No advertising balloons will be permitted to compete, and the only printing that may be displayed is the name of the constructor. Pilots are required to have certificates from the Federation Aeronautique Internationale as well as an annual license issued by the contest committee of the National Aeronautic Association.

Albert Von Lambert, internationally known balloonist from St. Louis, will be the referee. Sixteen balloons are among them several army and navy entries. A specially built balloon, in which helium gas probably will be used, will be entered by the navy, according to Mr. Shaw.

Membership Boost Salary of Morris at Baptist Meeting

The membership at a business meeting of the First Baptist church Wednesday night decided to advance the salary of Rev. C. C. Morris from $3,000 to $3,600 in an effort to hold him. While he has not publicly announced his plans for the future, it is believed he will turn down the call from San Marcos, Texas, which was tendered him some time ago.

The congregation plans to erect a modern house of worship in the next year or two, and the membership believes Rev. Morris is particularly well qualified to direct this work.

REGENTS CALLED IN PARLEY WITH HIGH EXECUTIVE

Individual Conferences With New Board of Regents May Mark Policy.

MEETING HELD SECRET Definitely Decided Wilson Not to Be at Head of Aggie Institution.

(By the Associated Press) OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10.—Unconfirmed reports at the capital were that favorable consideration of the board would be given Dean J. S. Buchanan of the arts and science college at the university as a temporary successor to Dr. Brooks.

Another course which it was pointed out might be followed would be to go outside of the state for a well-known educator to take the place permanently. The name of Charles H. Brough, former governor of Arkansas, was prominently mentioned in unofficial circles. Victor Purdy, secretary of the state federation of labor, announced that federation would oppose Brough's election. He said that the Arkansas state federation of labor had alleged that Brough's administration was unsatisfactory from their standpoint and that the Oklahoma federation would therefore decline to approve his appointment.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10.—A series of individual conferences between Governor Walton and members of the reorganized board of regents of the University of Oklahoma was in progress at the capital prior to the first meeting of the board today. When the regents arrived at the capital the executive notified them of his desire to confer with each member of the board privately. C. J. Wrightman of Tulsa, slated to succeed Hal Muldrow of Norman as chairman of the board, was the first to go into the governor's private chamber. Other members of the board assembled in the outer office and awaited their turns.

George Bowman of Kingfisher democratic national committeeman and holdover member of the board, said he thought the meetings would be short. He declined to indicate, as did the other members, the probable course of action.

In view of the impending resignation of Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the university, who has accepted the presidency of the University of Missouri, effective July 1, many possible successors are being considered.

In the absence of statement from the governor as to the subject of the interviews with the board members there was much speculation as to their import. Observers who remembered the statement yesterday that the governor would leave the naming of the new university head entirely in the hands of the board were inclined to think the selection of a board chairman was being talked over.

WILSON NOT TO HEAD A. & M. COLLEGE INTIMATED

(By the Associated Press) OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10.—Governor Walton has definitely decided against the advisability of the appointment of George Wilson as president of the Oklahoma A. & M. college. It was said today by a member of the state legislature who is known to stand high in the administration ranks.

The administration leader, who declined to have his name revealed, said that the governor had informed him of his decision in a conversation today.

He quoted the executive as saying that he was "convinced that the people do not want Wilson and in view of the apparent overwhelming opposition to his appointment" he felt that President Eskridge should be retained in his present position as head of the college.

AMERICANS REMAIN IN GOLF TOURNEY RUNNING

(By the Associated Press) DEAL, England, May 10.—Two Americans remain in the running for the British amateur golf championship at the completion of the fifth round this afternoon. They are Outmet of Boston and Douglas Grant American born but for some years a resident of London.

Roger Wethered, the Oxford star, defeated Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, Oregon, in the fifth round today.

If the reports of two guns are less than 1-16 of a second apart, they can not be distinguished.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

ABUNDANTLY SATISFIED.—They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures.—Psalm 36:8.

"THE COW, THE SOW AND THE HEN."

The above has been the slogan for advocates of diversified farming for the past year or two, and Pontotoc county is coming to the front with all three, besides a good many other things.

During the past 18 months dairying has made great strides, cream checks bringing thousands of dollars to the farmers of the county and the work has only just begun.

As for the hog industry it can be judged by the shipments that have been made. Albert Chamberlain reports that the Farmers Exchange has shipped about 75 cars since it opened for business 13 months ago, 26 of which have been shipped since January 1 of this year. Others have also been shipping, hence it is safe to say that 100 cars have gone out from Ada alone during the past year, to say nothing of shipments from almost every railroad station in the county. At present prices a car of hogs brings between $1,200 and $1,300, according to Mr. Chamberlain from which it can readily be seen that the hog business has been an important item of income to the farmers.

As for the work of the hen a good deal could be said. Car after car of poultry has been shipped from the county during the past few months and the crop of this year will eclipse all previous records. The egg business has grown into one of importance and is becoming greater all the time.

The Cow, the Sow and the Hen, their tribes are increasing in Pontotoc county and in a very short time, at the present rate, it cannot be said that there are farms in the county with none of these valuable assistants to the making of a good living.

A GOOD PLACE TO LIVE.

C. E. Cuning a few days ago was commenting on the advantages Ada possesses as a place for a home. He is of the opinion that a school town is a poor business town, and therefore the average man does not care to live in a strictly school town. A city of industries with no particular attention given to the cultural side of life is not a desirable place to live and rear a family. Inasmuch as Ada is a city of schools and also has many industries, he believes it is an ideal residence city.

We agree heartily with Mr. Cuning. It is unusual to find art, music, manufacturing and commerce combined as they are combined in Ada. The city has more musical organizations of merit than any other city we now recall of anything like the size of Ada. In addition to the leading Teachers College, it has city schools of the highest order.

We should determine now that as Ada grows in commerce and industry, that she shall also grow in music, in literature and in art. Within a few years probably the great American novel we have been expecting all these many years will come out of Ada. Or possibly the successor to the great music artists will be an Ada boy or girl.

One extremist is the fellow who when times are flush imagines that they will remain that way forever and spends everything he makes without thought of a rainy day. The other fellow is in evidence when times are bad. He thinks that the silver lining has been swept from the last cloud and that the sun will never shine again, hence is ready to give up the fight. Both are to be avoided by the average citizen who recognizes the fact that life is made up of both ups and downs.

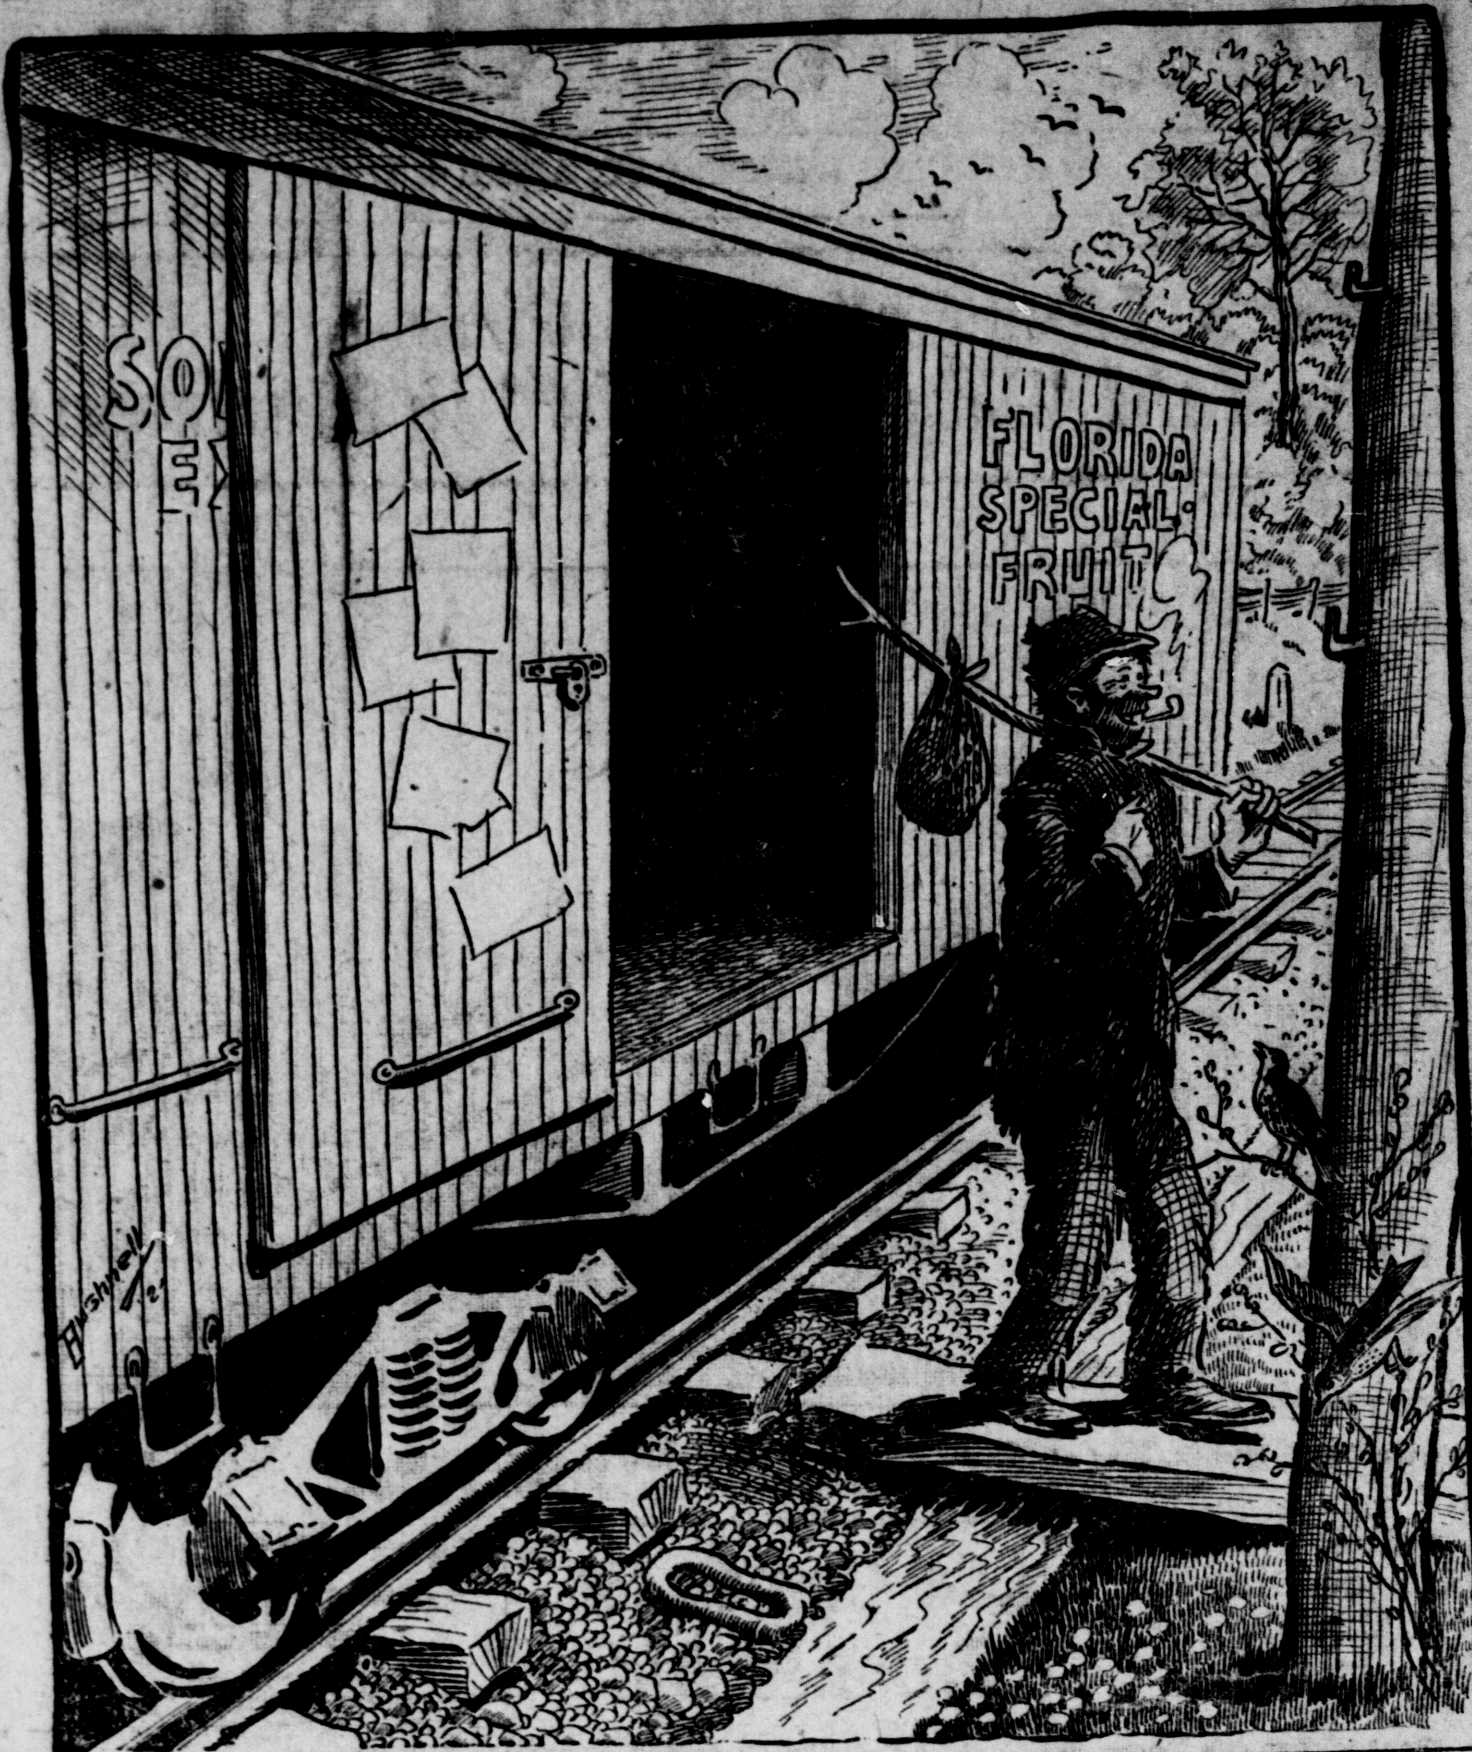

The corrupt ring which with William H. Thompson at its head, has misgoverned Chicago for the past eight years was overwhelmingly swept out of office Tuesday and a Democratic administration elected. Thompson was an astute politician and he and his gang were so thoroughly entrenched that it required a wave of popular indignation to sweep them out. The public will stand for a great deal, but in time it always rises up and asserts its power as it did in this case.

It sometimes takes the national government a long time to learn what the public already knows. For instance, during all the years of its existence the capital of the state has been known at home and abroad as Oklahoma City, but with the post office officials at Washington it is simply Oklahoma. Now the hustling metropolis is seeking to have the department recognize the second word of the name and save trouble.

Perhaps when the government gets through with the oil promoters at Fort Worth, who have fattened on sales of worthless stock the people will know how badly they have been stung, but there is no chance of seeing their money again. No method has yet been devised that will convince people that buying stuff sight unseen seldom pays any one but the promoter.

Trotsky has issued an open letter to the world in which he forecasts many years of war. Incidentally he suggests that Russia must keep abreast of the world in providing an immense fleet of aircraft.

"How Other People Get Ahead."

(Chickasha Express)

"Getting ahead in the world" is a game in which all of us seek proficiency. The Savings Division of the U. S. Treasury has put out a little pamphlet which bears the above title and it gives some highly practical pointers.

Our government is endeavoring to teach the doctrine of thrift, because a "country of thrifty citizens makes a strong and healthy nation. National thrift is a protection against war; an assurance of lower living costs; a guaranty of good employment. Why? For the reason that the nation is but an aggregation of individuals, whose personal habits become national habits."

Thrift is one of the hardest lessons in life to learn and few master it. "Thrift means good management; vigorous growth. Thrift is the best means of thriving. Thrift means spending less than you earn; saving systematically. It does not mean that you should stop spending."

"Thrift means securing interest on your savings. Money kept in hiding never earns anything. Put your money to work. You work for money; make it work for you."

"Learn to know values; the value of the fruits of your labor. Investigate and study merchandise values. Know what you buy before you buy it. Read advertising. Get acquainted with brands and trade marks, and their significance. Watch expenditures. Put on your thinking cap and keep it on."

"The wise individual is he who so regulates his income and outgo that emergencies are provided for automatically. He knows the meaning of 'peace of mind' because he has money laid by. His chin is up, his step is brisk, he is master—not the slave—of circumstances."

"To get ahead you must have a simple and definite plan. Hit or miss methods won't do; in the accumulation of money they are positively fatal. Do not read further until you see the truth of this statement."

"Learn to distinguish between luxuries and necessities, and don't be neutral."

"Keep track of all disbursements. Find out if you are wasting money, then plug the leak."

"Don't shop through your children—do it yourself. But if practical let the children accompany you when they are old enough to understand values."

Andrew Carnegie expressed it completely when he said: "The best way to accumulate money is to resolutely bank a fixed portion of your income, no matter how small the amount."

Benjamin Franklin said: "Remember that money is of a prolific generating nature. Money can beget money, and its offspring can beget more, and so on. The more there is of it, the more it produces every turning, so that the profits rise quicker and quicker."

True to Ourselves.

(Los Angeles Times)

Character is life's greatest asset, whether it be of an individual, a community or a people. Where morals are lacking there can be no security, no stability, no permanent progress. One of our presidents is reputed to have said to his campaign managers when they suggested a platform plank that savored of charlatanism, "Party honesty is party expedience," which is but another rendering of Lincoln's admonition. "You can't fool all the people all the time."

America as a nation is great and powerful because its ideals are great. The quality of our citizenship has had more to do with our progress than fertility of soil or favorable geographical location. Some of the most fertile parts of the earth are among the most backward in development; the land is uncultivated because a civilization that lacked character became decadent. Equality of opportunity and the same quality of justice for the weak and the strong are the fundamentals of American citizenship. When these fundamentals are violated progress ceases and decadence begins.

MANY AMERICANS WANT RHINE LIFE

Cheap Living in Germany Has Appeal for Americans of Late War.

COBLENZ.—The cheap living in this part of the Rhine country continues to attract many Americans abroad, many of whom came here originally to visit the American occupation zone.

The occupied territories all along the Rhine enjoy the advantage of having prices regulated, in a manner not possible in unoccupied Germany, where Americans and other strangers sometimes complain they are overcharged, or else compelled to pay higher prices than Germans. The living is cheap because of the relative worthlessness of the mark when exchanged for the dollar or the pound sterling.

How it works out for the German is another matter. What is cheap to the foreigner is dear to him.

In the case of automobile drivers, the American may use a taxi for a day, and the entire bill will not be more than three or four dollars, out of which sum the driver gets the equivalent of 25 cents.

In other words, the skilled workman is paid of the skilled workman is 3,000 to 4,000 marks. This also applies to railway workers of all classes.

When it is noted that a man's shirt costs 15,000 to 20,000 marks, and a pair of shoes 30,000 to 60,000 marks, and both articles of second grade quality, it may be inferred how high the depreciated mark has put the cost of living for the German.

One of the skilled laborers, now driving an automobile for hire, was an infantry captain during the war. After the war, he worked for the British army of occupation, and by great good luck made some money when the reduced British forces began selling off supplies. He accumulated a capital in marks the equivalent of $10,000.

With this sum he decided to buy a farm and take his wife and children to the country. He bought a 300 acre farm near Coblenz and went to work. His surplus he invested in farm equipment, horses, stock and seeds.

By the summer of 1920 he had a fine harvest, but the diminished value of the mark cut his crop and land values in two. This process continued until he failed.

He sold most of his land and is now obliged to work for a few thousand marks a day, with the mark still depreciating in value and prices going higher.

NEED PATIENCE IN PARIS LIFE

Home Seekers Have Hard Time Furnishing Abode in French Style.

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS, April 3.—An American woman would have a wonderful time organizing her home in Paris, and enjoy every moment spent in arranging her apartment, provided she were endowed with a sense of humor and never lost her patience. The first thing is to find your apartment. Some Americans have spent years trying to solve this problem, but without success. There are virtually no unfurnished apartments. The war stopped new building and today real estate agencies follow a policy of leasing all unfurnished apartments they can find, of furnishing them, and then renting them as furnished abodes. Another policy which dashes the hopes of seekers of unfurnished flats is that of giving leases on apartments provided the lessee will purchase all the furniture they contain, and at very high prices. When the agile agencies whose organization is superb uncover a vacant flat they hasten to stick in a bureau, a carpet and a few chairs and then gravely announce that flat seekers can have their prize if they pay cash for the "exquisite furnishings."

But in spite of the foregoing an American woman came back to Paris a few weeks ago, after an absence of several years, and found an unfurnished apartment at the end of three days. Which demonstrates that if you know how to go about things in Paris, and see the right people, things can be accomplished in France as in other lands. It is knowing the psychology of the people you have to deal with and realizing that courtesy and patience ever bring their reward.

Then began the struggle to furnish the apartment, and here again quick results were obtained by going about it the right way. The lease itself is an amazing document, full of technical details and conditions. In addition to the rent there are the extras like hot water, heating, collection of garbage, fees for the porter, etc. Furthermore, there is the tax paid the government on each window, and the lease must be officially registered at an extra charge. No proprietor in Paris today will do anything in the way of repairs, so the new occupant had to find painters, decorators, men to clean and wash the floors and women to wash the windows. She supplied her own electric fixtures; she had the electric battery in the kitchen removed from the wall in conformity with new regulations; she had all exposed wires covered with moulding to prevent fire, and she tipped every man and woman who did anything at all.

Then there came the carpet layers and the curtain hangers, the plumbers and the carpenters, each contributing something to organization and happiness.

But with all that, it is fine fun setting up home life in Paris. All you have to do is to find your flat and store up an inexhaustible supply of patience.

English Taxes Are Overdue.

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON.—Many million pounds are due the British treasury from unpaid super-tax and income tax assessments, according to the chancellor of the exchequer, Stanley Baldwin. The total amounts to about $118,500,000, or approximately $590,000,000. The income tax arrears alone amount to $95,000,000.

In Great Britain and northern Ireland there are approximately 5,000,000 people with incomes above the exemption limit, but the tax liabilities of roughly one-half of this number are covered by personal allowances, deductions and reliefs.

The Ingredients of Success!

Survey Reveals the Factors Which Aid in Achieving Life's Goal.

NOTHING succeeds like success, saith the adage. True, perhaps, although the opulent pan-handlers on the streets of any large city are examples of highly successful failures. But admitting the truth of the adage—admitting that good clothes, a confident manner, the atmosphere and attitude of success, are levers of greatest power in prying further success from a reluctant world—what are the chances of the average individual of taking even the initial step toward the coveted goal?

It depends on a number of things. It depends on age, the state of being married or unmarried, on the number of dependents of the individual, and membership in lodges, just to name a scattered few. But the results of having a large family, for instance, in relation to success, are not just what one would hastily conclude.

Survey Based on Large Group
Feeling that success in life is probably the thing for which more individuals are striving than any other, and sensing also that there were certain definite factors underlying success, the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company during a period of years made a survey of hundreds of representative individuals—without the individuals knowing that they were being surveyed. These individuals were studied, classified, tabulated, and checked one against another, always from the standpoint of their worldly success. For convenience in compiling final tables on the subject the figures were arranged in groups of one hundred each. And some startling things were discovered.

While this survey, like most studies of its kind, applies only to a limited group, and is not proposed as a standard mathematical accuracy for every individual everywhere, it is based on factors which constitute the life of all men and as such is of general interest and value.

These figures, and the charts accompanying them, will aid any person in calculating the odds for or against himself in the race for success. Other elements enter which have not been tabulated of course. But those tabulated are sufficiently fundamental and sufficiently powerful to be considered the controlling factors in the life of the average individual.

Organization Affiliations Value
Are you a "joiner?" Do you belong to the Amalgamated Brotherhood Flock of Sea-gulls? And to the Synchronized Society for the Preservation of Niblicks? And to the Men's Auxiliary of the Affiliated Republics of the Fifth Ward? And to Why Give a Whoopison? Better still, do you hold the office of Exalted Grand Whoosis in any of these organizations, or in all of them?

Seriously, your chances of success are better if you do. The tables compiled by the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company show that the individual who belongs to one organization or less has 43 chances for success out of a hundred, whereas, belonging to two, he has 58 chances; to three or four, 62 chances; and to five or over, 68 chances. This membership in organizations, as tabulated, is considered without relation to any of the other elements entering into success, you understand. The comparisons are on the basis of organization membership alone, as each one of the other factors tabulated is considered alone, and then grouped for a final consideration of the score of the individual.

A man holding office in two organizations, or less, has 59 chances of success as compared with 83 chances for the man holding office in three or more.

Married Man Has Better Chance

A married man has 59 chances of success to 49 for a single man, notwithstanding the wife-baiters who accuse their usually very-much-better halves of being mill-stones around their necks.

A man with one or no dependents has 49 chances for success to 63 for the man with two or more dependents. It appears that a man with a large family has to give the best he has, and as he gives, so he gets.

Are you one of these old fellows of 52 who mourn his departed youth, feeling that he's slipping as age creeps on him? Know, then, that you are just entering the age of greatest value to yourself and the world. The chances of your success between 33 and 38 are about 64 out of a hundred, as compared to 49 for the youngster of 23 or under. From 24 to 32 the chances of success increase to 58 out of a hundred. After the prime of life there is a decrease in chances, to 53 out of a hundred, and the man over 45 has just a fair gambler's chance, "fifty-fifty."

Experience a Big Factor

The average young fellow just out of college or high school feels fit to lick the world. He doesn't often do it, for the first few years, but if enthusiasm were the only ingredient of success he would start at the top.

The figures compiled by the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company bear out, with mathematical exactness, what men just out of school have almost invariably discovered. Enthusiasm must have the backing of that sober, dependable fellow, Experience. As a team they are almost unbeatable. The man who has been out of school nine years or under has 60 chances for success in a new field, while one who has been out over nine years has 73 chances. Worldly wisdom, experience, do count. Do you own your home? The National Association of Real Estate Boards, which has been aggregating home ownership so strongly may be glad to know that the home owner has about 63 chances for success to 49 for the renter of boarder.

Investments a Good Indication

Other investments help too. The man with no investment, or only one, has 46 chances for success, as compared with 54 for the man with two investments, and 74 for the one with three or over. Life insurance, which may be considered a further investment, gives a man 59 chances of success to only 47 for the man without it.

These nine items, considered basic factors in the determination of success, make possible a high score of 608. That is, if an individual ranks in the highest class in each of the nine divisions, and the success points allowed in each of these high classes are added, his score is 608. If he ranks in the lowest class in each division, his score is 464. The chances of success of the first individual as compared with the second are therefore as 608 to 464. Most people will score somewhere between, by rating in the highest class in some divisions and in the lower classes in others. Half way between the high and low scores should be a fair "passing grade." That is 536.

There will be exceptions. There will be those who will violate every rule and succeed. But for the average individual, with average mental equipment, ambitions, and reactions, a score somewhere above 536 is going to mean a better chance to succeed than a score somewhere below.

How do you score? Count up, and see. Nothing succeeds like success. Perhaps so. And then again, perhaps nothing succeeds like a home of your own, a wife to look after it, a few children to brighten it up and mar the woodwork, and a lodge to go out to on Tuesday night.

LABOR PROBLEMS SHOWING RELIEF

Many Countries Now Showing Improvement in Labor Situation.

LONDON.—The unemployment situation throughout the world is favorable compared with that of a year ago, says the current issue of the International Labor Review, the monthly publication of the International Labor office of the League of Nations at Geneva. The periodical has just finished a world-wide survey on unemployment.

In France and Belgium unemployment is almost non-existent. In North America employment was exceedingly good toward the close of 1922 as compared with 1921, though in Canada figures for October and November show a contraction as compared with previous years.

In the United States employment has been steadily increasing during the past year and business conditions continue to improve. Production was very good during January, 1923, and apparently no one a year ago expected such a rapid recovery.

In the United Kingdom the general unemployment index numbers show little change at the end of January, 1923 as compared with December, 1922. The activity in coal mining, in steel-sheet manufacture, and in the worsted industry was satisfactory, but most of the other principal industries are still under the spell of depression.

In the Scandinavian countries and in the Netherlands the situation shows improvement.

In Italy the great increase of the numbers unemployed recorded the end of the year was due to unemployment in the mining and out-door industries, as well as in agriculture.

Polish industries were comparatively active during the last three months of 1922, and a comparison with the corresponding month of last year shows that unemployment has greatly diminished. In Switzerland unemployment is still declining.

Austria and Germany are the only two countries for which unemployment figures show a substantial increase at the end of 1922 as compared with 1921. It has been estimated that Austrian industries were working at 40 percent of their capacity at the end of 1922. In Germany seasonal unemployment in the building industry is especially acute this year. Employment in the metal, electrical and chemical industries is still good, the decline being chiefly in the printing, food and building trades.

Darkness Changes Animals From Dull Caged Captives To Spirited Food for Chase

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, April 16.—Wild animals in captivity live at night an imaginative life entirely different from their dull day hours when the curious file by in front of their cages, according to R. H. Pocock, superintendent of the Zoological Gardens of London who is about to retire after many years of service. At night the inborn habits of the jungle show themselves in striking fashion, and the beasts throw off the sleepy veneer of indifference they seem to adopt when humans stand in front of their enclosures and speculate upon what might happen were the animals suddenly given their liberty.

Speaking of the differences he has noticed in the behavior of wild beasts by day and night, Mr. Pocock says: "If you go into the lions' house during the day you are nearly always impressed by the peaceful way in which the animals regard you. But visit them in the darkness and instantly you are aware of the change."

"As if by magic their instincts to hunt and to kill have returned. Nothing is more weird than to walk past the cage of a lion or a tiger and then to turn around. To your astonishment you see that the animal, as you went by, has been stalking you, just as if he were still living in natural surroundings. On the instant you turn your head he drops flat on the floor of the cage. His great, lithe body remains perfectly still as he lies there intently watching you. I do not think wild animals like these ever lose their instincts, no matter how long they are kept in captivity. And at night, when all is still and there are none of the distractions of the daylight, they can live again in the world from which we have brought them."

"In a climate like that of London," says Mr. Pocock, "animals in captivity must always be a source of anxiety, and the wonder to me is that they live so healthily. Most people, for some reason, appear to think that animals should never be ill, but that of course is absurd. My experience is that the weather affects them to precisely the same extent that it does human beings. Fog proves most depressing to all the Zoo inhabitants, while dry, sunny weather cheers them up and their happiness is undoubted."

"When you see a big lot of deaths recorded in the newspapers, you will note precisely the same mortality rate at the Zoo. Our birds, with a covering of feathers, are, on the whole, very much able to withstand cold and exposure than beasts protected by hair. You can keep tropical parrots in the open all the year round with comparative ease, and although you can do the same with a good many tropical animals covered with hair, you are never sure that what applies to one member of the species will apply equally well to others."

Mr. Pocock does not believe that wild animals ever make good pets. "No wild animals, in my opinion," he says, "can be relied on as a pet. Man already has domesticated practically all that can be domesticated."

RICHARD BARTHELMESS SCORES IN 'THE SEVENTH DAY'

"The Seventh Day" is good enough entertainment for the seventh day and all the other six. While it might be stretching a point to say that it is the best entertainment the screen has ever had, there is little question but that Richard Barthelmess, who won his sensational spurs as star with "Tolable David," has followed it up with a picture of unusual interest. Its opening at the McSwain Theatre yesterday was auspicious.

The story, an original by Porter Emerson Browne, is a simple narrative of the lives of New England fishermen in which the star's simple, sincere manner of acting carries conviction. To the isolated Maine sea-coast town comes a yacht filled with social blades and flappers who are forced to idle away seven days because their engine has broken down.

Even jazz and "put and take" become tiresome and the metropolitans start to explore the place at which Kismet has landed them. Young John Alden falls madly in love with one of the girls, who, in the ennuil of luxury, allows him to escort her about. It is just a game to the girl but deadly serious for the boy; and it is the realization of impending crisis that brings out the true disposition of both.

We have already spoken of Dick Barthelmess' sincere acting. Frank Losee and Leslie Stowe are admirably made up to represent the New England sea characters and their acting does justice to the roles. Louise Huff returns to the screen as leading lady. The cast includes Teddie Gerard, a European stage success of American birth; George Stewart, Anita's brother, and Alfred Schmid, New York society millionaire.

Henry III of France wore ruffs over a foot in depth and which contained more than 19 yards of cloth.

USE JAZZ MUSIC TO CONVERT HEATHENS

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 10.—Ragtime and "jazz" may be working to the detriment of Young America but their syncopated strains are winning converts to Christian ideals in Tibet, Tibet and Tahiti, according to Paul Rader, evangelist and president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, the international conference of which here May 15-23 will bring missionaries from all parts of the world.

"American jazz music is used by our more than 100 missionaries to attract the attention of and assemble the most savage people in our field to evangelistic services," Mr. Rader said. "Our missionaries carry no arms, but through musical instruments and their voices raised in song and prayer ply their work of converting the heathen. Sacred words are put to modern jazz songs, noble thoughts to popular tunes, and then sung with a spirit that attracts the black, yellow and brown races."

"All sorts of hymns are sung, but we find that the rhythm of ragtime tunes caters the simple mind of the savage, appeals to his ton-ton trained mind, and the first thing the missionary knows the wild man is singing Christian words, learning white religious theology and presently is converted."

FRENCH STEAMERS MAY REDUCE TAHITI TRADE

(By the Associated Press)
PAPEETE, Tahiti, May 10.—A regular tri-monthly steamer service between France and Tahiti and New Caledonia will be instituted in the near future by the French company, Messagerie Maritime, according to recent announcement.

It is expected here that this will greatly reduce importations from the United States, since direct steamer service with France, where lower prices prevail and on whose goods heavy import duties are not charged, will turn trade away from America.

HER ANTIQUES

By ANNETTE SYMMES

(By the Associated Press)

When Content Happgood, after a winter of hard work in the office, came down with "grip," and did not gain after it as she should, Grandma Happgood, on her little hilly Massachusetts farm, wrote inviting her name-sake to make her a visit.

Grandma was house-cleaning, and on a certain sunny day in late April chose to wash the blankets and coverlets, and to air the comforters, hence the backyard was a riot of gay color.

"I'm goin' to give you one of those woven coverlets when you get married, Content," said grandma, "an' a pair o' the home-woven blankets that my mother made, an' enough o' the patch-work quilts to make up a bed."

"Oooh-oo, grandma!" cried Content. "How lovely! I do love the old things so much more than new. They mean so much more, some way!"

"I know," smiled grandma. "That's why I want you to have 'em. Mercy! Here comes the motorcycle man, tearin' along as he always does! I sh'd think that young feller'd break his neck!"

The motorcycle man, in spite of his speed, had a ready hand for his cap when he spied Content. Content blushed. She had her suspicions about the motorcycle man. Twice his machine had balked mysteriously in front of the house.

Late that afternoon she was digging dandelion greens back of the barn. Her grandparents had driven to the village and she was just thinking that she ought to go up to the house and take in the bedding before the dampness began to gather, when she heard a car coming. Presently she saw a small truck stop at the gate. The man who alighted she recognized, even without the aid of the spinning wheel in the back of the truck, as a particularly pestiferous dealer in antiques, who, about a fortnight before, had been so determined to secure some of grandma's things that both women had been glad that grandma was within call.

Content kept out of sight as he thumped on the door, glad the house was locked. After a few moments he retraced his steps and she listened for the sound of the car starting, wondering why it was so long. When it finally did start she emerged from her concealment and rounded the house—then stopped aghast! The clotheslines were bare! The precious, wonderful old hand-wrought bed furnishings were all gone—and in a flash she understood! The antique man, believing the place deserted, had made hay while the sun shone and was carrying home the crop!

"And I don't know his car number or his name," half sobbed the girl. "I burned his wretched little card the other day! Oh, what shall I do?"

She started running up the road towards the nearest house, where there was a telephone, crying as she ran. A short distance above the road forked and she knew that he might easily get beyond her reach. The telephone there was a leisurely affair. Suddenly she heard behind her a familiar roaring rush, and the motorcycle man drew up beside her.

"What's the matter? Anybody sick?" he queried anxiously.

Then out came the story in sobbing gasps and the motorcycle man's face grew black with anger.

"Rascal!" he cried, "but we'll get him yet. Hop into the side-car! Put on this coat," producing a service overcoat from the side-car, "and get in quick!"

It seemed to Content that they were flying. If she had not been so angry she would have been afraid. At the fork of the road, two miles beyond, the motorcycle man slowed down and scanned the road.

"He's got one brand new tire of different pattern than the rest," he explained. "Here's his trail, to the right." He let out the machine again.

In the very next yard the little truck stood before the door, and the dealer was struggling with a heavy bureau. His face changed color as the motorcycle whirled into the yard and he recognized Content.

The motorcycle man stated the case pungently before a surprised audience composed of the family who lived there, and demanded restitution.

The dealer remonstrated, declaring that he had bought the things at a bargain because "the old woman" needed the money.

"I keep them. I keep them!" he cried.

"Alright!" snapped the motorcycle man, "you can tell that to the police! It will be quite an ad for you in this section, even if you skin out of a jail sentence! Fork over or I'll call up the station at Milray now!"

The dealer saw that the game was up. Viciously he pulled out the bedding and sternly that motorcycle man insisted that Content tally the result of his disgorging. The lady of the house willingly agreed to keep the things till next day, and then ignoring the dealer's sulphurous monologue, the motorcycle headed for home.

There were hot biscuits and honey for supper and the motorcycle man helped eat them. And as he ate he blessed that antique dealer from the bottom of his heart.

'Capital.

Tabor is Again Speaker on Klan to City Hearers

(By the Associated Press)

DDr. John A. Tabor filled his second appointment in Ada Wednesday night when he addressed a large audience in the Asbury Methodist tabernacle in North Ada on the principles of the Ku Klux Klan.

He followed rather closely the line of argument advanced at the meeting in the Pontotoc Building Tuesday night, outlining the principles as standing for law and order, patriotism, white supremacy, public schools and other things of a similar nature.

The tabernacle would not accommodate all the crowds and many listened from the outside.

New Wave Length Allotments May Solve Radio Fad

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, May 10.—Elimination of the conflict of voices and music in the air, due to the number of radio broadcasting stations using the same wave length, soon will be under way as a result of measures decided upon at the recent radio conference in Washington.

The new wave lengths, which will range from 222 to 545 meters, are to be available May 15. One of the largest of the local stations, KYW, has announced it will thereafter send on 448 meters instead of 400 meters. The higher powered stations may use wave lengths between 288 and 545 meters, while those of less power will be assigned waves from 222 to 286 meters.

The new allotments will reduce interference to a minimum. Chicago will send on 448; Davenport on 484; Des Moines, 484; Detroit, 517; Dearborn, 517; Cleveland, 390; Toledo, 390; Cincinnati, 309; Madison, 417 and Minneapolis, 417.

MANILA, May 10.—Japanese farmers who abandoned their hemp plantations two years ago in Davao province, Island of Mindanao, are returning to that region on account of the firm hemp market, according to N. H. Duckworth of the Mindanao Planter's Association.

Not only the Japanese plantation owners, but many Japanese laborers are returning to the hemp fields which they abandoned two years ago because they could not make a living stripping hemp.

Asks Permission to Use Schools to Further Art

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 10.—Community art centers in country school houses, deserted during the summer vacation period, are advocated by David Mannes, a musician of this city, who urges the organization of art clubs with headquarters in the empty school houses for more widespread knowledge and enjoyment of art. Such centers, he says, would provide not only for the study of music, sculpture, painting, etc., but also give opportunities for wider companionship.

"Students and teachers in the cities would be glad to direct such clubs for a nominal sum during vacation time," Mr. Mannes declares. "Benefit would result to the children of farmers and country folk, and to the parents themselves, whose hunger for art goes unsatisfied. The development of the artistic impulse latent in every one and stifled, too often in those who are far away from the cities, is of great importance to America's intellectual advancement and spiritual growth."

The Champion Hit Like A Sledge Hammer — A Secret of His Terrible Punch

Revealed by the present world's heavy-weight champion. Great difference between strength, energy and endurance of weak and strong men may all be due to the kind of food they eat.

Make This Amazing Test

RECENTLY the writer asked Jack Dempsey, world's heavy-weight champion if he would tell the public the secret of his tremendous power and terrible punch. Dempsey's statement was as follows: "We cannot all be champions but every man's strength, energy and endurance, and the power of his punch, all depend upon the strength and energy of the millions of cells that compose your body, and the physical strength of these cells depends absolutely upon the food you eat—that is, the material with which they are fed, just like a house that is built of boards or mud is not so strong as one built of stone or iron. The most important element in building strong and forceful cells is a peculiar form of iron found in the husks of grain and the peels and skins of certain fruits and vegetables. But modern methods of cooking throw these important things away so that probably nineteen people out of twenty get 100% iron in their blood. In training for a big fight to help my body build strong, iron like cells, I always mix a little of this peculiar form of iron demanded by these cells, with my daily food. There is often an astonishing change in even two weeks' time."

Jack Dempsey, heavy weight champion of the world and marvel of these days, always should be mixed with your food as directed on each package. Don't make a mistake and get some of the older forms of iron instead of Nuzated Iron, which is a totally different thing. Ask for an unbroken package and look for the word Nuzated on the label.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
LET US GIVE THANKS:—Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honor, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever.—Revelation 7:12.

A FOOLISH ACT.

The New York legislature has passed an act, repealing the bill providing for the enforcement of the Volstead act. Thus far the bill has not been signed by Governor Smith, and so far as we can learn he has not intimated what he will do. In case he signs the bill, New York state will be in an unenviable position in reference to prohibition.

The Volstead act is a law, a law of the United States. It is the duty of every officer, and every private citizen to see that the law is enforced. Instead of trying to put obstacles in the way of its enforcement, as the repeal of the New York law clearly intends to do, every one should lend his influence towards its enforcement. If the Volstead act is bad, its rigid enforcement will simply bring out the bad phases more clearly and cause public sentiment to demand its repeal. As long as it is on record as a law, that long should every legislature try in every way to help put it into practice.

It appears to us that there is a dangerous tendency on the part of many office holders to ignore the spirit of America. How any officer can swear to uphold the constitution of his state and the constitution of the United States and obey the laws of the state and nation, and then by buying whiskey from bootleggers and otherwise throws things in the way of enforcement of the prohibition laws, is more than we can grasp. If this ignoring of the law and this evasion of responsibility is not stopped, we cannot say what the results will be. It is certain they will not be to the best interest of the country.

A law should be enforced as long as it is law. If the law is wrong, change it.

A well known writer in a current magazine calls attention to the change of sentiment towards boxing matches and prize fights. Not many years ago it was largely the sport of the tough element and those engaged in it were far from desirable citizens, hence the game was in a bad odor and most states passed stringent laws against it. However, as this writer points out, a great change has taken place. In the first place, it is recognized that if any man expects to make good his personal habits must be clean. In order to play this strenuous game he must keep himself in the best of physical condition, which means clean living. Next the fights are now on the square and the public is willing to pay its money when it is being treated fairly. The brutality of former days has been eliminated and the public has learned that a knockout generally means a few seconds of unconsciousness with all bad effects gone in an hour or two. It is human nature to like to witness a contest of any kind in which skill and strength are pitted against its kind, hence boxing has steadily grown in favor.

The latest in the way of alarming propaganda to be received by The News is a post card warning Americans to beware of an underhanded attempt through the Cecil Rhodes fund towards "The ultimate recovery of the United States of America as an integral part of the British Empire." Very startling, to be sure, but such a union would be about the same as annexing a tail to a dog and figuring that said tail would wag the dog. Great Britain is about large enough to make a fair sized cow ranch in Texas and her population is too much below that of the United States to do much annexing. We advise the alarmists, who forgot to sign their names to the card, to tell us something with more foundation of fact, say the Rocky mountains are going to sink, for instance.

TOO MANY BOARDS.

Governor Neff of Texas has forcibly called attention to the fact that state governments are getting too heavy. There are, he complains, too many boards, too many office holders. Go along any street in America, and one out of every twenty persons you meet, one will be on the public payroll. In other words, one-twentieth or 5 percent of our earnings must go to pay the salaries of officers. When we consider the other expenses of government, it is easy to see that nearly one-tenth of the earnings of the country must go to the payment of government expense. This is entirely too heavy, and the future statesmen must devise some way to lower the costs.

GRATEFULNESS.

No person can afford to let lack of appreciation embitter his life or deter him from doing that which he knows is right and his duty. One of the strange things about human beings is that they are quick to forget a favor, or even not recognize a favor when it is extended.

The acts of men are often misinterpreted and sordid motives charged. Public men are often accused of doing too much or not doing enough. All in all, it is a great world, full of inconsistencies and ungratefulness, but at the same time it has its rewards. The man who does what he knows is right and keeps at it will beat the game sooner or later.

TITLED BRITISH TAKE IN LODGERS

New Term Originates From Practice of Titled British Women.

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON, May 9.—One of the significant signs of the times is the number of titled women who are taking boarders because they are hard up. They are advertising for them, too, but they do not call the "boarders."

They refer to them as "paying guests"—a term which it is said, has not yet obtained currency in America.

There is no real difference between "boarders" and "paying guests" except that the latter are charged more. Boarders are regarded as quite vulgar, while paying guests are assumed to be people of some social position.

One titled lady advertises that she has a wide circle of titled people among her friends and acquaintances to whom she will introduce "paying guests" and that nobody will know they are not her own particular friends. It is added in the advertisement that "liberal terms" are "expected."

"A lady of title," runs another advertisement, "will accept the chaparrone of a few young ladies of good breeding for whom she will guarantee 'exceptional social advantages' and 'will organize dances, parties and entertainments.'"

Another advertisement runs, "A lady of title who used to entertain on a lavish scale before the war but is no longer able to indulge her fondness for hospitality on such a generous scale as formerly, will receive some highly recommended paying guests at large and magnificently furnished ancestral mansion standing in midst of beautiful and extensive estate. Only people who have been accustomed to moving in the best society will be received."

That is one way of hinting that the rates charged will be considerably more than at a first class hotel.

One advertisement that appeared recent read: "A few American young ladies whose parents can appreciate value of a refined and cultivated English accent received as paying guests by two ladies of title who will instruct them in the manners and deportment of people who move in the best English society. References exchanged."

Failure of the French prune crop in 1922 made an excellent demand for American prunes.

KNOX RULING NOT EFFECTIVE UNTIL COURT DECISION

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 10.—On the assumption that the decision of Federal Judge Knox in New York declaring void the limitations imposed on physicians in prescribing liquor, will not become effective until after being reviewed by the supreme court, prohibition headquarters announced today that no change in the present regulations relating to permits in the New York district will be put into effect until the highest court has acted.

Dougherty Says Tanlac Made Life Worth Living for Him

"Tanlac certainly made life worth living for me," recently said Patrick Dougherty, widely known horse and mule dealer, living at 203 W. Central Ave., Ft. Worth, Tex.

"For ten years, I suffered from indigestion and all the symptoms that go with a bad case of stomach trouble. I couldn't eat anything greasy or even drink coffee, and had about lost hope of ever being well or able to enjoy another meal. My kidneys bothered me, I couldn't get a good night's rest, and just existed rather than lived."

"My neighbors praised Tanlac so highly I began taking the treatment myself, and it fixed me up so I could eat anything without suffering afterwards and increased my weight twenty-seven pounds besides. That was about seven years ago, and a little Tanlac now and then has kept me feeling fine ever since. I have recommended Tanlac to hundreds of people and have never known it to fail of splendid results."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Take no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.

VANOSS

C. W. White, Misses Reed, Clark, Gaar and West attended the May Festival May 3rd, at Ada. Cody Sutherland and Evan Johnston also went.

Miss Maggie Cunningham spent the weekend with friends in Ada. Mrs. J. E. Sutherland is with her daughter Mrs. Tom A. Thomas of Ada for a week or ten days.

Mr. Williamson and Mr. Bradley of Ada were visiting in the Vanoss school Monday.

Mr. McCauley and Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Smith attended the May festivities and also made a pleasure trip to Ada Sunday.

Misses Ruby and Ethyl Sturdevant were the week end visitors of home folks.

The Freshmen, their sponsor, the sophomores and a few visitors went on a fishing trip Friday evening.

Not a very long trip but an enjoyable one. All took lunch. Not many fish bit that night, but quite a number of mosquitoes did. After fishing awhile eggs were roasted and lunch spread before the bonfire. Before leaving many yells and songs were given.

The Freshmen and sophs are a bully sort of bunch and know how to enjoy themselves and how to make others enjoy themselves. Everyone had a topping good time.

Several are absent from school this week to plant corn or work in the field.

GOOD SOAP FOR TWO CENTS A POUND
Make It At Home By This Easy Process—Takes Less Than 30 Minutes.

Nowadays, more and more women are doing as their mothers did and are making their own soap. If you have never tried it, you will be surprised to see how easy it is to make good soap, soft soap, hard soap or floating soap, just by using kitchen scraps and waste grease together with a can of Merry War Lye, the safe and sure soapmaker.

In the old days when soap was made by the boiling process it took nearly all day to make a kettle of soap. Now it is hardly any work at all—requires no boiling—takes less than 30 minutes. Saves you money and gives you all the pure, clean soap you need for kitchen, laundry and all household purposes.

You will find simple directions for soap-making on the label of every can of Merry War Lye.

Merry War Powdered Lye comes in a convenient can with revolving sifting top that cannot come off, cannot get lost, recloses tightly and preserves contents. It is economical to buy and easy to use.

Woman Prophet Arrested

(By the Associated Press)

BERGEN, Norway, May 10.—The latest "dream preacher," one Maria Akersblom, has been arrested in Finland. The woman caused such a future among the working classes that the authorities felt forced to take action.

Going from place to place on horseback, with flowing hair, Maria foretold the immediate end of the world. She declared that in view of this to own a house or land, to save money or do any kind of work was useless. As a result of her preaching all of her large following of peasants, it is said have been economically ruined.

Correct measurement within a distance of a millionth of an inch is possible with two so-called glass flats whose surfaces are perfect plants and a fixed or known gauge.

The Ants

Night."

He had seen something so clearly; he had felt it so poignantly—the minute comic tragedy of these ants. Had she seen nothing at all? Had she felt nothing?

A reservoir deep within him began to surge. It was a reservoir which had been filling there in the dark, drop by drop, for years. Several times it had surged as it was now doing. But only with a tentative pulsing which did not reach the rim. Now, each surge brought the accumulated reserve higher. Like some alchemist's brew boiling on the fire, it rose, neared the margin, collapsed, rose again. But each of its ebullitions was raising it higher; nearer to the film which curtailed his consciousness from the dark secrets beneath; nearer his clear consciousness, nearer his mouth—his tongue, his lips.

And suddenly, with a new effort, it had done it—it had brimmed! Clearly he heard the words spoken in the silent sunlight. The little glade resounded to them, spoken loud.

"Cruel—and stupid!"

That was it. "Cruel and stupid." Three times he heard the words spoken before complete understanding searched out his heart. And then, to this full comprehension, he felt his legs wobble, and abruptly sat down on a little mound of grass.

He remained seated thus, immobile, his eyes fixed ahead as if upon a ghost.

So this is what it had come to after all those years. To this he had come, after all those years.

To these words, spoken not merely of the lips, but explosively expelled by his entirely certain being, every drop, every cell, every nerve.

These words, final judgment.

"Cruel—and stupid!"

The glade was very quiet in the sun, and insects hummed. Thoughts also hummed about his head, vague, formless, buzzing thoughts, circling and circling. But always, fixed in the center, was the kernel fact.

"Cruel and stupid"—that is what he had called her.

It seemed to him that a long time had passed when suddenly, like a mirage descended from the sky, an image came clearly before his eyes.

It was that picture of her as she had been years ago. Standing at the stile on the edge of the golden field; with her red mouth, her dewy star-like eyes, her gentle breasts.

He contemplated this long, and then was forced to ask himself a question. As she stood there, that time long ago, so pretty, so tender and so warm, and his arms ached, was she then, already, what today he had called her?

If that were true, then women were indeed terrible.

But if not true—what then?

A strange new kind of discomfort took possession of him; his mind, as if affrighted, shied to one side, tried to bolt. He forced it back to the path. "Consider," he said to his mind. "Consider—you must consider that."

Her life, immediately, passed by him in one streak. Her life since their two lives had been side by side.

He squirmed.

A drab life it was, a drab streak of life. Poverty—to dullness—monotony—smallness.

And loneliness. Yes, very probably, loneliness.

He? He had been absorbed. He had been combing and brushing and seeking and curling his soul. He had been a coxcomb of the soul.

He had cultivated it, enriched it. He had colored it, chiseled it, cherished it. Like a diamond cutter absorbed, without cease he had ground it to new iridescences.

He had climbed a hill, ceaselessly climbed a hill carrying his soul. And left hers down there like a stone. And time had worked its will upon the abandoned soul. Duller and duller it had become with layer upon layer of dull time.

Peter did not go up to the village. When he rose after a while it was toward home he made his way, at first on hesitant feet which little by little quickened their gait as a foolish fear pricked him.

He found her lying across her bed, her head, face down, framed within the intertwinement of her arms and her long loosened hair. She was asleep; by the gentle pulsing of her, he knew she was asleep.

Her cheek was flushed and bruised; she had been weeping.

One look at her; one glance about the room, and he knew exactly what had happened; saw it as though it had happened before his eyes.

She had come in hurriedly; hurriedly she had bathed and begun to dress.

Servants Cheap in Osaka.

(By the Associated Press)
OSAKA, Japan.—The wages of servant girls in Osaka have gone up 1,800 per cent in 30 years. The pay of men servants, printers, carpenters, and coolies has gone up in the same period of time, between 820 and 1,300 percent.

In 1891 servant girls got an average of 83 sen, or about 42 cents a month. Today they are paid $7.50.

She had laid out fresh things. Some already clothed her; others were about, scattered on chairs, across open drawers.

She had gone about doing this in a trepidation of haste, as a child desperately hastens who has been threatened by its parents with being left behind. And hurrying, she had been crying; sobs had sounded in this lonely room as she hurried.

Finally, to a larger burst of woe, coming probably from some last small straw (perhaps one of her shoes had refused to button, or some hook had been found without an eye, or some ribbon had slipped back into its sheath), she had thrown herself across the bed to give way, altogether uncontrolled. And weeping thus, had fallen asleep.

Standing here, his eyes upon this past scene which he saw so well, Peter remembered that which he ever promised himself to remember and which ever he forgot. That she was a child. After all, but a child.

As in the days when she had waited for him at the stile, so now she was a child. The rest—the robust matron's ready, almost rough assurance; its firm contempt for all that which was hazy, and hazy and opalescent and not clear—all that was mere front. She was a child.

He should remember that always. Of course, he should always remember it. Peter lay down by his wife, and found her hot lips, and awakened her; she clutched at him convulsively.

They murmured together. "I'm sorry, Peter; I'm sorry."

Then later: "Peter, you do so madly me at times, dear. With your lips—no, I don't mean that. But you do shut the door upon me, Peter—you do shut me out so much!"

Still later: "And, Peter, you are of those that like the flowers but not the gardening."

"Polished floors, but not the polishing."

"I know, dear. I know."

"Peter, listen: I am of the earth. I accept. You're always somewhere up above."

"I know, dear. Not far above, either. A fool place, in between. I know."

"I accept. I am getting old. Everyone does, Peter. I am willing to grow old."

She whispered now. "Peter—I'm even willing to die!"

He pressed her closer, but the old desolate helplessness had come back.

"You, Peter—you are such a rebel, Peter! How you shut your eyes and fight! Trying to hold what cannot be held. And hating me because I can't. For I can't, Peter, I can't!"

This a child? A strange child! No—a child. Since in children was wisdom. Was this wisdom? A spasm of revolt tightened his heart.

But she was weeping now, softly, against his breast. He regretted her in his arms and with this gesture felt a new large tenderness fill him. A tenderness which was not only for her, but for many others—for the whole world. The whole poor purblind peering world which could not see straight, which could not see clear, which suffered dimly, in a sort of vague delirium.

Near the end of the day, Peter stood once more alone in the garden. For what had passed in the afternoon, he felt something like embarrassment, a slight distaste, that strange revulsion we feel whenever we have made the gesture of plumbing life's emotional depths. As if there were something wrong about it, something unnatural; as if life were meant to be lived altogether on the surface, carefully on the surface.

He felt the need of levity. That is what, perhaps, made him remember the ants; the ants which had been the beginning of the afternoon.

A slight breeze, ruffling the pool, had pushed together the dust, the ants and the eggs in a pitiful dead huddle against a bank.

"Where did they come in?" he asked himself.

He and his wife had this day made one of those complete circles which, as if by some natural law, recur almost at certain intervals. From a state of hostility into which they had slipped, through a crisis, to a renewed gentleness of each other. They were happy once more, Daisy and he. But what about the ants? Where did they come in? It was over their backs this had happened. They had paid for it. Didn't they count at all?

An idea came to him. He raised his face to the skies.

Whenever he did this, sensuous painter that he was, he was much more apt to visualize the old familiar Greek deities than any more abstract, single and terrible god. So he did this time.

A fog had come in from the sea; it made a low floor of the heavens, and on that floor Peter imagined the gods walking—Zeus, Hera, the whole galaxy, democratic, familiar, with robes a little disordered and wreaths a little askew. He halted them.

"Heigh, up there, Zeus, Hera, Venus, all of you, tell me please!"

"When, down here, the earth shakes, mountains slide, or the sea overflows."

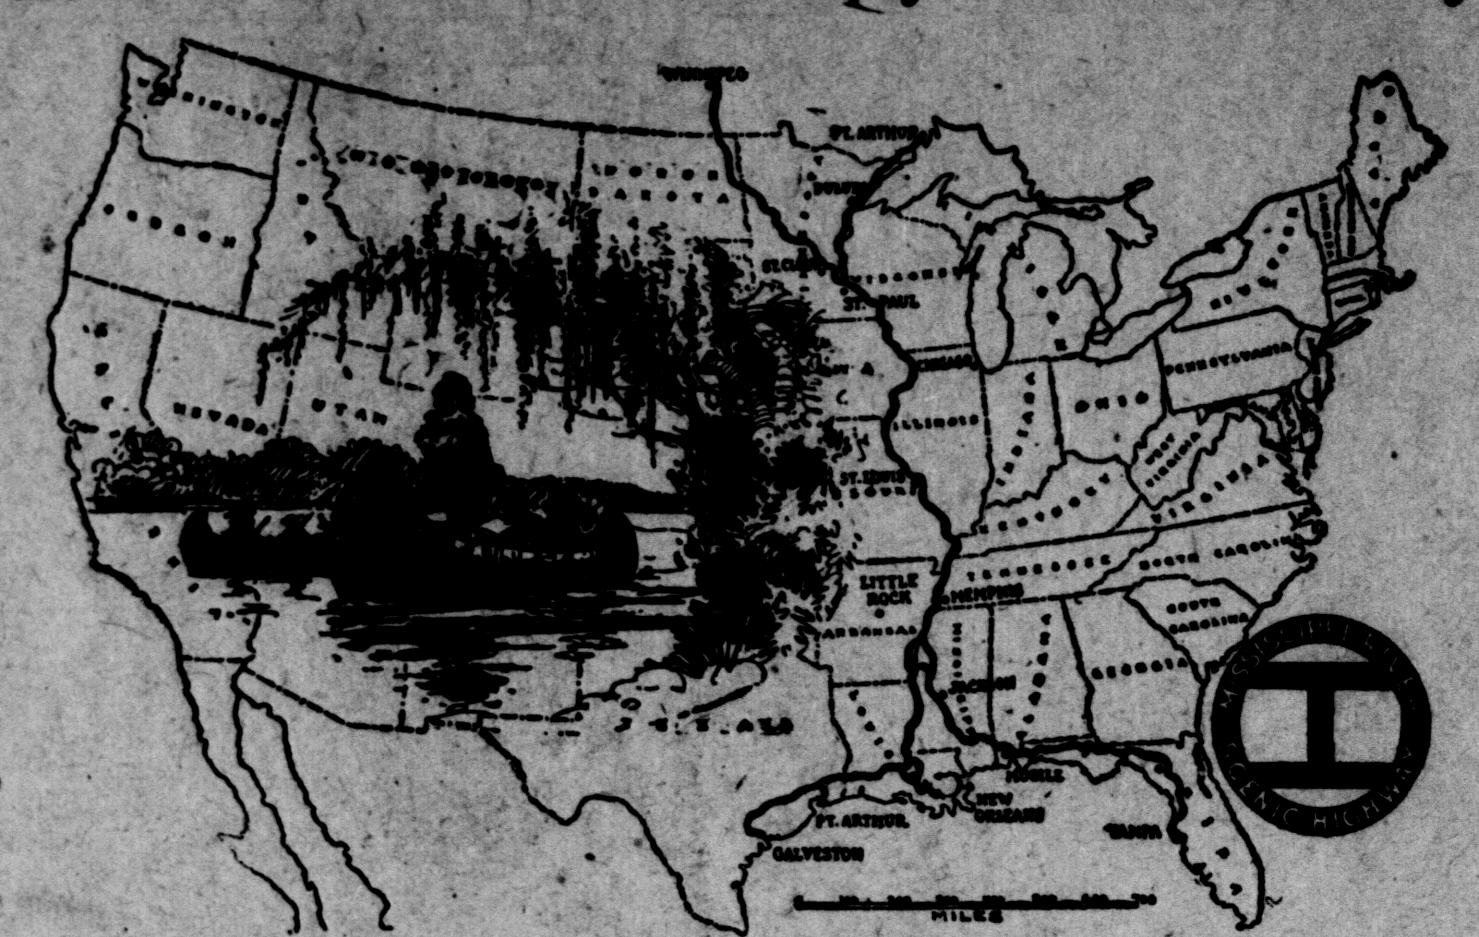

"When, down here, there is a Noah flood, a San Francisco earthquake; when China dances and Saint Pierre, with one belch of its volcano is blasted."

"Does this mean, merely, that up there, where you dwell, some small marital difficulty is being resolved?"

But from the gray ceiling—ceiling to him, floor to them—there came no answer whatever. So, Peter ended the day knowing not much more than he had at the beginning. And in that state, smiling a philosophical smile, turned his steps toward the house; and the dinner which his good little wife had there just put down for him.

Four ways of peering are: beach combing, natural plunging, dredging, and diving in a modern diving apparatus.

Route of La Salle Is Followed by Nation's Broadway

NUMBER 1 of the biased trails of the continent, as marked on the official auto trail maps, is the Mississippi River Scenic Highway.

It is fitting that this highway should be accorded first place, for it follows the Father of Waters, and the route of La Salle, from the Lakes to the Gulf. If the Lincoln Highway is America's Main Street, this is America's Broadway.

It leads from Port Arthur, Canada, to Port Arthur, Texas; from Winnipeg to New Orleans and Galveston; from Manitoba to Mobile; from the snow fields of the North through the golden corn belt to the snowy cotton fields of the South, and on again to the golden orange groves of Florida.

At each extremity it is really a system of highways, feeding into a broad main road. This road throughout its length follows the margin of that great stream, which with its tributary, the Missouri, is the world's longest river.

Its marker is a blue circle surrounding the Roman numeral "I." These markers are placed at convenient intervals along the highway, to guide the rubber-tired highwayman as he hits the trail to "see America first."

With a knowledge of the meaning of the road markers, contained in the official auto trail maps, which are the keys to the marked highways, the prospective tourist can obtain full information as to his route, types of roads to be encountered, and the location of the wayside inns, before starting. Intelligent touring has displaced touring by the trial and error method, since the inception of the biased trails.

The Mississippi River Scenic Highway is an example of the work being done to enable a motorized nation to know itself. It is today what the Robert E. Lee and the Natchez, crack steamers of the great river, were yesterday, and the canoes of the French-Canadian voyageurs were the day before that. A river route of imperceptible grades from the Red River of the North to the Mississippi delta, traversing throughout its length a country rich and populous, it is properly the Broadway of the continent.

KING OF SWEDEN AT FESTIVITIES

Ruler Opens Exposition at Gathering for People of Country.

(By the Associated Press)

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, May 9.—The Tercentennial Jubilee Exposition in Gothenburg will open tomorrow with gala festivities which the King of Sweden and other members of the royal family are expected to attend. This exposition, which celebrates the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of the city of Gothenburg by the famous warrior-king, Gustavus Adolphus, has been in preparation for a number of years. It will present exhibits of Swedish development in industry and commerce, science and education, art and literature.

The first note in the festal opening tomorrow will be sounded by the church bells chiming throughout the city at seven in the morning. The royal train from Stockholm is expected to arrive at seven-thirty. Two hours later there will be Te Deum services in all of the churches, the cathedral being reserved for the royal party and invited guests. At eleven o'clock the royal procession arrives at Gustaf Adolf's Square, where special commemorative services will be held, including the rendition of the first part of the Jubilee cantata, composed for the occasion, and the placing of a huge wreath at the foot of the Gustavus Adolphus statue.

The gates to the exposition grounds will be ceremoniously opened for the entrance of the king at one o'clock, after which the royal procession passes through the piazzas and avenues of the exposition to Memorial Hall, one of the most strikingly beautiful buildings at the fair. Here will be given a special reception, including the rendition of the second part of the Jubilee Cantata by a chorus of one thousand school children. At the end of these ceremonies the king signs his name in the memorial register, and the exhibits are declared open to the public.

The day's festivities close with a historical pageant and parade through the streets of Gothenburg. The exposition closes September 30.

Cruel Clerk Denies Young Hiram

Quiet ruled in the court clerk's office.

A civil lawyer pondered lazily over a stack of papers in a divorce suit, while the clerk's assistants bent over the cash ledger with an air of complete abandon to all else.

Unnoticed a young chap slipped through the door and with pitiable timidity approached the counter, fearful to ask if a lad from Owl Creek might obtain service from the dignitaries of the county.

"How old are you?" asked the assistant upon being aware of the lad's presence and at the same time began the accustomed process of bringing out a marriage license blank.

Caught unaware, the lad mumbled the same "21" and then began the usual process of rattling over and over again.

With a careful eye the clerk glanced at the lad and then made an exit through the side door.

Left alone, the lad rammed his hands into his trouser pockets and jingled the three dollars in a nervous rhythm.

The jingling ceased—the clerk had returned.

"How old did you say, Lad?"

"Twenty-one."

"When?"

"I don't remember."

"You can't get the license, the school records show you're only sixteen."

The lad stammered, looked confused—then calmed down and again dug his hands into the pockets and found the three iron men all safe.

When he reached the door again and much relieved he turned, "Thanks, mister," and was gone.

"Here Brutus empty this basket. These kids are sure keepin' me busy," ended the assistant.

And he balanced the cash book.

"Last night," granted the Mad Materialist.
